Thanks, let's discuss this further when we meet on Friday. Any word from the port?

Alan,

Superior Sign does not do this type of work. Los Angeles Sign Company can assist with design, provide permitting assistance and engineering assistance. It didn't sound like they would be involved in doing any research or branding type of work related to the sign. You just show them a picture of what you want and they can design it.

I was in an LA Fleet Week planning meeting this morning and Andy is out this afternoon. He will swap out the picture in the morning.

I will revise the auto-invite.

We need to talk to sign companies like Superior sign, Los Angeles sign company, California sign company and Brand sign company. It doesn't make sense to pay thousands of dollars to get a design and then figure out if it can be turned into a sign. The sign company websites talk about free estimates and the design work will most likely be included in the cost.

Also did you get the new picture I'd like to have on developsanpedro home page? I would like to get the old one swapped out asap.

One last thing I just replied to your invite and suggested folks be taken off and some added.
Thanks,
Alan

I don't create an agenda for the Executive Committee so anything is fair game. We have received another bid since that last time we spoke and I have made copies for everyone to review. I may also be getting a 4th bid before Friday.

Can we put the archway sign on the agenda just for our exec comm meeting? I want to suggest a different tack to take in getting bids for the sign, namely, from sign companies who have in house art departments.

Alan,

Here's what was sent out to request additional proposals.

Best regards,
